

To prevent Crimes is both Justice and Mercy.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Court of Aldermen, the Common Council, of the City of London, and to every Magistrate, Merchant, Tradesman, and Family in Great Britain, is most respectfully address'd,

Permanent MARKING INK,

To Write on LINEN, COTTON, and SILK, &c. with a PEN.

Made by W. NAYLOR,

(Colour = Maker to His Majesty.)

THE Utility of a ready Mode of marking Household and other Linen, by Writing on it with a Pen, is unquestionable. By such a practice every Person is enabled clearly to Identify their Property:— Thus will it tend to prevent Purloining, particularly domestic petty Thieving and Pocket Picking, in the first instance; and ultimately to the conviction of Thieves. Let the Name and Place of Abode be written in a good size Character, on the middle of the Handkerchief, &c. or the Coat of Arms, Crest, or other Device, be drawn on it, and the Value will be much reduced to the Person who steals it, as the Sale will thereby be rendered very Hazardous, if not Impracticable. This INK may be used with facility, for the above Purposes, and for drawing Ornaments upon any Linen or Cotton Cloth. It will be warranted to stand every Chymical Test, and Wash, and Wear as long as the Fabrics last.

Price 1s. 6d. a Bottle, which is sufficient to Mark upwards of One Thousand Pieces of Linen, &c.

DIRECTIONS.

THE Linen, &c. to be mark'd, should be Spread out quite Streight and Smooth, then take a clean Pen that has a longish hard knib, with a short slit, dip the Pen into the Bottle, and shake the superfluous Ink back again, so that your Pen be not too full, then Write what you please on the Article to be mark'd, bear very light on your Pen, Write quickly, and draw your Strokes mostly downwards, or the Pen will be apt to catch in the Cross Threads; let the Linen be Clean and perfectly Dry when mark'd, and it will stand Washing and Boiling next Day, though it is better to let it stay a Week, or till Dirty by Use. A very fine painting Brush may be used instead of a Pen.

You may also Stain any Device on Mahogany or other Furniture, without hurting the Polish.

Sold Wholesale and Retail, (by Appointment of the Proprietor) by W. Clachar, Bookseller, Chelmsford; and W. Bailey, Printer, No. 42, Bishopsgate Within, London: Sold also by Mr. Hedges, Printseller, under the Royal Exchange; Mr. Nicholl, Bookseller, St. Paul's Church Yard; Mr. Hall, Perfumer, opposite Exeter-Change, Strand; Mr. Durham, Bookseller, near Scotland Yard, Charing Cross; Mr. Gibbs, and Mr. Keymer, Booksellers, Colchester; Mr. Smitheman, Braintree; Mr. Brackett, Sudbury; Mr. Punchard, Ipswich; Mr. Rackham, and Mrs. Rogers, Bury; Mr. Henefer, Harwich; and Mr. Stonard, Rochford.